

Please join us for a strategic session on building movements around the economic crisis, human rights, and the US.

Human Rights Response to the Economic Crisis in the United States

Thursday, June 25th, 2009 (6-8pm)

10th Floor, Church Center

777 UN Plaza, (44th Street and First Avenue), New York

Speakers include:

United States Mission Representative to the United Nations (invited)

Radhika Balakrishnan, MMC / CWGL

Diana Salas, Women of Color Policy Network

It is clearly time to assess economic policy using the ethical lens of universally-recognized human rights standards. This panel will look at the impact of the economic crisis on the economic and social rights of people in the United States, and illustrate how a human rights framework is needed to analyze why the crisis was allowed to happen and what we can do about it.

Sponsored by:

MarymountManhattan
a college of the liberal arts

WOMEN OF COLOR POLICY NETWORK
NYUWagner

Center for Women's Global Leadership

