

Spotlight Human Rights

A SERIES OF NEW PLAYS ABOUT HUMAN RIGHTS PRACTITIONERS

THE SPOTLIGHT: HUMAN RIGHTS INITIATIVE brings together practitioners in the field of human rights with theatre artists, scholars and students from NYC colleges and high schools to collaborate on the creation of new plays, pairing those plays with new scholarship that raises public awareness about the lives of international air workers. The initiative tackles critical questions and issues through art that has a meaningful impact for human rights practitioners.

DOMINIQUE MORISSEAU's Play "MEND"

Created with partner: Sanctuary for Families

Each event begins at 3pm with a presentation of select scenes from the play, followed by a panel of experts discussing the issues raised in an interactive format with the audience. At 5pm there will be a break for snacks and dialogue between the audience and the professionals from a variety of fields. At 5:30, the play will be performed in its entirety, followed by a post-show talk with the artists, ending at 8pm. You can attend from 3-5:30 or from 5-8, or stay for both!
