

DRIVERS FOR JUSTICE IN THE GLOBAL CITY

Featuring
Bhairavi Desai, RU '94

WHEN: November 14, 2012
WHERE: Labor Education Center Auditorium
(Cook/Douglass Campus)
TIME: 7:00 p.m.— 8:30 p.m.

 Light Refreshments will be served

You Must RSVP at: rutgers_drivers.eventbrite.com

Bhairavi Desai, RU alumna '94, has been organizing taxi drivers and working to establish a new kind of drivers' union since 1996. In 1998, Desai co-founded and is currently executive director of the 15,000-member New York Taxi Workers Alliance, 60% of whom are South Asian. As head of a national labor organization, Desai will discuss issues of women in leadership, work and globalization in the 21st century, the impact of 9/11 on immigrant workers, and the use of ethnic networks to organize for change. For more information, visit smlr.rutgers.edu/drivers-for-justice

RUTGERS
School of Management and Labor Relations

This event is co-sponsored by Rutgers' Center for Women and Work, Center on Women's Global Leadership, Institute for Women's Leadership, Sociology Department, Women and Gender Studies, Douglass Residential College, Department of Africana Studies, Institute for Research on Women, South Asian Studies Program, New Labor, RU Sangam, Manavi, Asian American Cultural Center, and School of Arts and Sciences Educational Opportunity Fund Program.

