

Multiple Effects: Gender-Based Violence & Militarism

What are the links between women's agency over their bodies and gender-based violence? How does international policymaking and advocacy at the United Nations affect sexual and reproductive health and rights? What does the impact of economic sanctions on women and women's health look like? What is the media's role in certain policy measures with respect to women and women's bodies?

Join us for an exciting conversation!

Featuring:

SHANNON KOWALSKI

Director of Advocacy and Policy, International Women's Health Coalition (IWHC)

DEEPA KUMAR, PhD

Associate Professor, Journalism and Media Studies, Rutgers University

SUSSAN TAHMASEBI

Co-founder, International Civil Society Action Network (ICAN) & Director, ICAN's MENA region program

Wednesday, February 18, 2015

4:30-6:00PM (followed by a light reception)

Ruth Dill Johnson Crockett Building, Douglass Campus
Rutgers University, New Brunswick, NJ (take the EE/F Henderson stop)

This event is funded by the GAIA Centers Global Health! Initiative, Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey.

Center for Women's Global Leadership
www.cwgl.rutgers.edu

RUTGERS
School of Arts and Sciences